DRAWING

AN OPEN DOOR TO THE INCONSCIENT

By Hélène Farnault | éditions SKIRA Paris | after drawings by Alexandra Mas

SKIRA art publisher

SKIRA approached the most famous artists such as Picasso (1931), Matisse (1932), and Dalí (1934) ... It demonstrates an artistic ambition and a level of editorial, iconographic, and reproductive demands that are unparalleled, while also contributing to the development of a reference collection in the field of art history. This prestigious art publishing house, known for its art books, will be responsible for this work. SKIRA is part of the Flammarion Diffusion network, covering all sales channels in France, Belgium, Switzerland, and French-language bookstores for international sales, as well as in Canada through Flammarion-Socadis. They are present in nearly 900 points of sale, including Feltrinelli for Italy; Thames & Hudson for England, other European countries, Asia, Australia, and the rest of the world; Distributed Art Publishers (DAP) for the United States, Canada, and Latin America. Sensitive to environmental impact, photogravure is entrusted to Litho Art New based in Turin. The printing is done either in Ghent or in Italy; essential partners for the quality of SKIRA's publications.
